

As for the arts, there will be a juried fine arts show and a new component called Sights & Sounds at Arts, Beats and Eats, which will feature up-and-coming artists in the realms of music, film and visual art.

This year, Arts, Beats & Eats will charge $2 admission, with the exception of certain hours on Free Friday, Sept. 4. Aside from the low cost of food and drinks, the festival also will offer free bottled water and carnival rides from 11 a.m.- 2 p.m. on Sept. 5-7.
